B: TERM NAME	Infectious Diseases
Overview of Unit or Service	Please outline the role of the unit and range of clinical services provided: The Centre for Infectious Diseases and Microbiology at Westmead Hospital is an academic and clinical service integrating Infectious Diseases Medicine, Medical Microbiology, Public Health Laboratory services with Academic activities including undergraduate medical and Postgraduate medical training. There is an active research program, both basic and applied. The inpatient unit at Westmead Hospital cares for patients admitted with infectious diseases, many of whom present to the Emergency Department. These patients often have other medical co-morbidity. The medical team is run by two consultants (AMO) who take admissions and perform consultations in the hospital on alternate weeks. The consultants are responsible for the service on a rotating monthly roster. There are outpatient clinics staffed by the consultants and registrars providing care for a wide range of conditions including HIV/AIDS, hepatitis, tuberculosis, and osteomyelitis. There is a clinic to supervise patients receiving home intravenous antibiotic therapy. The junior medical officers in the ID Unit are supported by three on-site advanced trainees in ID, rotating through consult and inpatient roles. Please outline the patient case mix, acuity and turnover and how acutely ill the patients generally are: Patients presenting, most often, to the emergency with sepsis, unexplained fevers, endocarditis, complications of HIV, travellers with dengue/malaria or other travel associated infections, skin and soft tissue infections, pneumonia, pyelonephritis. Frequently patients have comorbidity. Almost all the patients are acutely unwell with a proportion admitted to the high dependency or intensive care units. The average number of inpatients is 12-20, with one-2 admissions daily.
