

Version History

Date	Version	Change details	Author
June 2014	1.0	Published	T McGee
May 29 2019	1.1	Full edit, layout change, reference update No changes to practice However, the option of considering IV terbutaline for fetal entrapment in soft tissue, especially premature vaginal breech head entrapment in the cervix, is included. GTN and terbutaline have not been directly compared in studies this situation - each has benefits and disadvantages	T McGee
July 8, 2019	1.2	Amend Terbutaline Dilution & Administration in Education Notes to clarify maximum 250 mg dosage is 250 mg (10mL) as per WSLHD anaesthetists	T McGee
2 nd September 2019	2.0	Approved by the WSLHD Drug Committee	T McGee

Intrapartum: Acute Intravenous or Sublingual / Lingual Spray Glyceryl Trinitrate (GTN) for Fetal Entrapment, Retained Placenta or Uterine Inversion in Operating Theatre (OT) and Birth Unit (BU) WSLHD [Release 1]

DocumentID	WSYD-PROC201847
Title	Intrapartum: Acute Intravenous or Sublingual / Lingual Spray Glyceryl Trinitrate (GTN) for Fetal Entrapment, Retained Placenta or Uterine Inversion in Operating Theatre (OT) and Birth Unit (BU) WSLHD
Alternative Title
Creator Corporate Name	Western Sydney Local Health District
Author	Dr Terry McGee
Author Position	Clinical Director
Author Email	terry.mcgee@health.nsw.gov.au
Contributor	WSLHD obstetric, anaesthetic and midwifery staff
Endorsement	Drug Committee
Publisher	Western Sydney Local Health District
Subject	Intrapartum: Acute Intravenous or Sublingual / Lingual Spray Glyceryl Trinitrate (GTN) for Fetal Entrapment, Retained Placenta or Uterine Inversion in Operating Theatre (OT) and Birth Unit (BU) WSLHD
Keywords	Intrapartum, Sublingual / Lingual Spray Glyceryl trinitrate, GTN, Fetal Entrapment, Retained Placenta, Uterine Inversion
Description	This document outlines the use of intravenous (IV) or sublingual/lingual spray (SL) glyceryl trinitrate (GTN, also known as nitroglycerin), when necessary, in the management of urgent situations such as: Prevention or management of acute fetal entrapment in the uterus / cervix
Version	2.0
Classification	Procedure
Source	NA
Date Created	05 Jun 2014
Date Modified	08 Jul 2019
Date Valid From	10 Sep 2019
Date Valid To	10 Sep 2023
Date Issued	10 Sep 2019
TRIM File Number	n/a
TRIM Record Number	WSPP18/230
Language	English
Relation	NA
Security	Unclassified
Risk Rating	Medium
Key Contact	Marcelle Appay, Drug Committee Pharmacist, 02 9845 8962, WSLHD-DrugCommittee@health.nsw.gov.au
Availability	On Line
LHD / Hospital	WSLHD
Functional Group	Western Sydney LHD
Identifier	WSLHD Publication Number: .
Audience	Overall